THE Wetaskiwin Free Lance says that the reason Ermine Skin's band of Indians came to Edmonton to trade was because they were informed that they could get whiskey here. All of which is respectfully submitted for the consideration of those interested.

O. H. BUSH left on Tuesday of last week for Lesser Slave lake by the new trail, taking several teams and fifty head of cattle. He will settle at Lesser Slave lake.

THE season's clean up at Dawson is placed at $7,000,000 as the lowest possible figure. Other estimates run up very much higher. No doubt if $7,000,000 is accounted for a very large amount is unaccounted for, owing to the inducement to avoid payment of royalty.

CONSIDERALE dissatisfaction has been expressed in town with the fact that due notice was not given of the arrival of the Wisconsin and Michigan press excursionists. No notice was sent that they would require breakfast, consequently, by the time they had reached the hotels and breakfast had been prepared and disposed of they had no time to look around the district.

DR. MEADE, of Pincher Creek, died recently of inflamation of the lungs. Dr. Meade was the coroner in the inquest on Macdonald and Fraser, the two men on the Crow's Nest pass works, who died of diphtheria at Pincher creek in January last. Time is evidently on the side of the department of justice in shielding the perpetrators of the Crow's Nest atrocities—and they are making the most of it.

Freight rates on the H. B. Co tramway at Grand Rapids have been reduced from $5 to $3 a ton on goods. That on boats remains at $5. A pathway suitable for the use of wheelbarrows or hand carts has been made parallel to the tramway, which is used by persons who do not desire to pay for the privilege of using the tramway. The boat channel has been kept open as far down as possible. A severe hail storm occured on July 1st at Grand rapids.

Two immigration delegates from Bodoway county, Missouri, Jas. C. Saunders and J. S. Powell, returned to their homes on Saturday, having made a tour of inspection of the several settlements around Edmonton with a view to settling there, as well as locating a large number of intending emigrants from their state. Messrs. Saunders and Powell purchased two quarter sections of C. P. R. land near Glengary and will return shortly to locate on it.

EIGHTEEN Stonies from White Whale lake reserve are in the Beaver hills, hunting game out of season. These Indians are excellent hunters and last year they are said to have killed in the hills out of season 12 moose, 22 bear and 3 small deer, besides innumerable ducks. They have their dogs trained to go into the water and catch young ducks before they can fly. The Beaver hills are far from the home of these Stonies, they are surrounded by white settlement, several townships in the centre have been set apart by the government as a timber reserve, and the settlers do not like the idea of the Indians being allowed to hunt there out of season. The game law should be enforced against these Indians, as no doubt it can be. If left alone they will clear the hills of game.

A MEETING, held for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent St. Albert in the forthcoming Territorial elections, was held at St. Albert on Saturday last. About 150 people were present. D. Tellier was appointed chairman, and Malcolm McKinlay of Stony Plain explained the object of the meeting and asked for a general expression of the wishes of the electors of the district. A. Arcand, in French, spoke to the same effect. Geo. W. Gairdner announced his candidature, and was followed by F. Villeneuve, of Edmonton, who, on being called upon, stated that if a majority of the electors at a convention regularly called, desired him to run as a candidate he would do so. Dr. Tierney also spoke somewhat along the same lines. M. Maloney, M. L. A., announced himself as again in the field, and Mr. Guilbault, of Riviere Qui Barre, concluded the meeting. It was decided to select representatives from the different districts to be present at a convention to be held at St. Albert on Saturday the 13th inst to choose a candidate.

W. A. FRASER'S name is coming prominently before the public as a writer of short stories. Three of Mr. Fraser's stories have appeared in leading publications within the last month. McClure's for July has one entitled "God and the Pagan," in which a very interesting experience of Rev. Father Lacombe in the Blackfoot camp in early days, is given in attractive and realistic form. The article is illustrated, and among the illustrations is a very good likeness of the Rev. Father. "Bulldog Carney" a tale in which some of the incidents of the murder of whiskey smuggler Baird in Kootenay some years ago, are interwoven, appears in the Chicago Inter-Ocean of recent issue. "A Diplomatic Bribe," a tale of the Toronto race track, is a leading feature in the midsummer annual "Our Lady of the Sunshine," issued by the publishing house of Geo. N. Morang, of Toronto. Mr. Fraser is an expert in oil boring as well as story writing, and now has charge of the government's oil boring operations on the Athabasca and the Saskatchewan. His stories are written in winter—first as recreation, but more recently they have found such favor with publishers that story writing has become his winter occupation.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, AUGUST 1st, 1898

THE Lethbridge News, speaking of the new Crow's Nest railway commissays: "It is quite possible that Mr. Haney now recognizes that it would have been better to let the inquest proceed." No doubt. But what about the administration of justice under which the holding of an inquest depends on the willingness of the party to be affected by the verdict? That is what a good many people want to know. Perhaps if a verdict was found against him Mr. Haney would object to its being enforced. What a fix that would be!

YUKON MAILS.

John P. Clum, post office inspector for Alaska, has been making a tour of the Klondike country, and with Captain Harper, of the Canadian postal department, paving the way to the securing of improved international mail facilities. In the meantime, he has established post offices at Eagle City, on Mission river; Star City, on the Seventy-Mile; Fort Yukon, Rampart City, on the Minook; Weare on the Tanana; and Uulato, near the Koyukuk river. A bi-monthly mail is being established between Circle City and the States, and all classes of mail matter will be handled, instead of a letter mail only as heretofore.

PELLY RIVER.

The following appears in a Fort Selkirk letter to a B. C. paper:

There is big excitement on the Pelly caused by the report by an Indian at Little Salmon that about 200 men started from there across country, but a lot of them lost the trail and turned back. They would have to go 150 miles. They discovered a new lake, but as regards the gold no one down here seems to know anything about it, but there are many going up the Pelly from here. A party of nine passed down here from the Pelly last week. They started from Edmonton last August with twelve in the party and one died of heart failure and two got drowned in the canon. In the Pelly they lost their boat and nearly all their stuff. They had to build another boat with 180 nails, and when they got here all they had was twenty pounds of flour. They never prospected any as they had not enough grub. The store here is out of provisions, but I hope there will be lots of cheap provisions this fall. If not there will be hard times. I heard that there are 3,000 people down at the mouth of the Stewart river.

THE LIARD ROUTE.

A. E. Lee writes from Dawson City under date of June 23rd to Miss Calvert, giving an account of the adventures of himself and friends on their trip from Sylvester's post, at the mouth of the Dease, to Pelly river and Dawson City. In a former letter, dated from Dease post, in the Cassiar district of British Columbia, Mr. Lee mentioned that the Stephen-Howey party, of which he was a member, had reached the foot of the rapids of the Liard in October '97, at the time the river froze. The party divided there, Stephen and Howey remaining behind and Lee, Gibney and Woodward going on in company with George Balaam and W. Shreve, who had left Edmonton with W. J. Graham. Velgue, of the Shand party, and Pelly, of Wright and Pelly, also decided to push on. What other members of the several parties did Mr. Lee does not say. These men, however, pushed on up the Liard on the ice, hauling as much of their supplies as possible on sleighs. At La Mountain's trading post, probably about the mouth of Mud river, Lee traded off most of his supplies to La Mountain, who assured him that he could get a new stock at Sylvester's post, 70 miles further on. On reaching Sylvester's post, however, nothing could be procured. They were then about 150 miles above the foot of the rapids with 150 miles further to go to reach Pelly river. They got the loan of two dog trains and went up the Dease 90 miles to McDame's creek or Sylvester's landing, in the hope of being able to purchase sufficient supplies there; but nothing could be had. They then went 18 miles further to Dease post of the H. B. Co., and succeeded in purchasing 200 pounds of flour, 100 pounds of rice and 100 pounds of bacon, with which they returned to Fort Sylvester at the mouth of the Dease.

The party then resumed their journey from the mouth of the Dease up the Frances to Frances lake, which they reached on April 14th. There they were joined by a party of five who had come in the previous fall by way of Telegraph creek. One of them named Kennedy was suffering from scurvy. They lost some days in locating the old portage trail, by way of Finlayson lake, and finally succeeded. They then hauled their supplies across on sleighs about 50 miles to a creek which put into the Pelly. The portage was easy, but the snow was gone before they got quite across. They again began to get short of food, and Lee hunted ducks while other members of the party built boats. They started down the creek to the Pelly on June 2nd. The water had fallen so that they had some difficulty in getting their boats down to the main river which here is 150 to 200 yards wide. Pelly, Lee and Velgue occupied one boat, Woodward, Shreve and the sick man, Kennedy, another and Gibney and Balaam another. They ran one canon the first day out and on the second day reached Houle canon. Woodward and Shreve and Gibney and Balaam were ahead of Lee, Pelly and Velgue. When these latter reached the head of the canon they saw no signs of their friends and supposed they had portaged around. They began to portage their load, and at the foot of the portage found Woodward and Shreve in a state of terrible excitement. They and Gibney and Balaam had attempted to run the canon. The boat of the two latter had upset at the entrance of the canon and nothing had been seen of the men afterwards. Kennedy the sick man in the boat with Woodward and Shreve had died from the shock. He was buried there. The party got away from Houle canon on June 6th and had no further mishaps on their trip to Dawson. They were of course very short of food, but about the 10th, near the mouth of the Macmillan they met prospectors tracking up the Pelly, and from them they got sufficient to put them through. They reached Fort Selkirk on the 12th. About 200 boats which had come down the Lewes from the passes were tied up there, preparing to track up the Pelly. The boats were of all kinds and descriptions, and made up a scene resembling Henley regatta. They remained at Selkirk one day, and before they pulled out for down the river six of the boats they had met going up as they were coming down returned discouraged with the hard work. Thousands of men come down from the passes, get discouraged, sell out, and pass on down the river to St Michaels. The party reached Dawson on June 16th, having been about ten months on the way from Edmonton.

The first cause of the length of the trip was the late start; and the effort to push on during the winter was the cause of the principal hardships suffered. Had they been content to winter at the foot of the rapids and push on up the river when open water came, they would have reached the upper Liard and Pelly with sufficient provisions to have enabled them to put in the summer prospecting in that region, towards which so many who had made the expensive trip from the coast, were heading. But having abandoned or sacrificed their food in their effort to get forward during the winter they were compelled to push on down the Pelly as fast as possible, without stopping at all to prospect, in order to get food. The desire to get up the Pelly was shown by the large number of boats which they met and the difficulty of getting up from the coast was shown by the number who in one day gave up the attempt. Notwithstanding the severe experiences of Mr. Lee and party, if the upper Liard or upper Pelly is the objective locality, the Edmonton route is the best by which to reach it, if a start is made at the right time.

ON THE TRAIL.

Messrs. Ross and McCauley, M. L. A's report a large number of parties on the new Slave lake trail using carts and wagons. One party of eight from Southern Manitoba were right behind Chalmers. They had eight carts. A German and his wife from New York City had one cart and a horse. A half breed family from Battleford had a team and wagon. Mr. Fraser had two teams with freight for Dunvegan, and two passengers. Draper and Walker, of Calgary, were at Swan river with eight carts and a four horse team. Gray and Legrandeur had two wagons and a buckboard. An American party were on the Deer mountains with 14 carts. Dr. Tulloch's party were at Deep Creek with eight carts and oxen and one horse. A large number of parties had got through by way of Swan river and had gone on to Peace river or were preparing to go on from the head of Slave lake. The three survey outfits and several other parties took the trail after Messrs. Ross and McCauley started. A restaurant had been started at the narrows of Slave lake and a rushing business was done at 50c a meal. The resident population of Lesser Slave lake is about 1,000. Freight from Slave lake to Peace rive has come down from $2 00 per hundred to $1.50 per hundred. There are plenty of teams.

ATHABASCA CROSSING.

A letter from J. R. Brenton, with Dibble's railway survey party, has been received from Athabasca river, dated July 18th. At the time of writing the river was too high to allow the ferry to run, and consequently the party was held up for a day or two. Dupont's party, which was ahead, had crossed all right. Mr. Brenton says: At the Pembina there is in course of construction a large and commodious house, as a stopping place. The owner's name is Gordon McDonald. It will be completed in a few days. At Athabasca crossing Greer & Livingstone have in course of construction a store and stopping place, with stables for 40 horses. They will be making hay in a few days and will put up 100 tons. Greer & Livingstone are the men who have the private mail contract from St. John. There are others settling here.

ANGUS RIDGE.

Heavy rains here on Monday, consequently the farmer's faces are looking cheerful. The Battle river school closed on July 20th and will re-open Sept. 1st. The teacher wishes his pupils a pleasant time during the holidays. We trust that the Regina politicians have no intention of annexing this part of the district to South Edmonton. It would be almost as reasonable to unite us to Calgary.

We believe the good people of this district will give a good account of themselves at the Wetaskiwin fall fair on Oct. 4th. The ladies are likely to be large exhibitors in the crystal palace. Peter Waterston, well and favorably known here, has left the neighborhood. Mr. McVicar was the guest of Mr. Bruce, Lewisville, on Thursday.

Walter Ramsay, teacher, Clover Bar, who has been spending a few days with his friend, Mr. S. O'Brien, teacher of Lacombe, was the guest of Mr. McVicar on Thursday.

George Larose lost a valuable horse this week. Crops are looking well here generally. We had a light shower of rain on Thursday.

Rev. Purdy, of the burg, had singing practice in the school house on Tuesday evening. He understands music thoroughly. Rev. Dean preached his first sermon in the school house last Sabbath. There was a good attendance. He made a very favorable impression on the congregation.

Several from here are away from their homes haying.

The local election in the fall is causing a little excitement here. July 28.

LACOMBE LINKS.

A return base ball match was played between Lacombe and Red Deer on the 12th. Victory again being with Lacombe. A large number of visitors attended the Orangemen's picnic and all expressed themselves quite satisfied. J. J. Wooley, general manager of the Dakota Masonic Insurance Co., was in town on the 13th on business. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bowland, of Buffalo lake, were in town on the 12th and 13th.

The famous McKenzie and Glover entertainment delighted an appreciative audience here on the 14th. They sustained their high reputation.

The editor of the Free Lance visited us on the 13th. It is his intention to devote a page of his valuable paper to Lacombe. Dr. Harden, a travelling dentist, stayed off one day but seemingly did not appear to receive very much practice. Dr. Donovan, of Red Deer, assisted Dr. Sharpe in a critical sugical operation on the 18th. The patient is getting along nicely. W. Pearce, of Edmonton, spent Sunday with his sister Mrs. McCully. Messrs. Parlby, Johnson, Belts, Yeo, Cairns, McCullough, Mott and Edminson, all of Buffalo lake, made business trips here during last week. Several of our farmers are building new houses which are adding much to the appearance of their farms. One new settler who purchased a C. P. R. lot last spring has fenced it and is now erecting a very nice house.

Mr. Vanalstine has received the contract for the new agricultural building.

Mrs. Lockhart, of Edmonton, is visiting at Mrs. Read's. Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Sharpe, of Pleasant Valley, on the arrival of a daughter.

Miss Campbell left for Olds on the 23rd to take charge of a school there. Miss Morphy arrived on the 22nd to take charge of the school here. Miss Ferda Puffer, who returned from a visit to Olds, is at present quite ill. A mistake was made in the correspondence of last issue. It should have read fresh fruit instead of fresh fish being imported here. July 25, '95.

To the Electors of the Edmonton Electoral District.

GENTLEMAN:—

Having been repeatedly urged by a number of the electors of this constituency to allow my name to be submitted for the candidature of this electoral district in the election of members for the next Legislative Assembly for the Territories, I have at length consented.

As you are no doubt aware the elections will, in all probability, be held early this autumn, and I now beg leave to announce my candidature, and I ask your support and influence in the coming contest.

I may safely say that to the most of you I am personally known, and you also know that ever since I came to this country, now nearly twenty-two years ago, I have been actively engaged in farming. For this reason, among others, I humbly urge my fitness to represent a constituency which is essentially a farming country.

I claim that in order to fully represent the will of the people in any capacity, the majority of whom are of a certain calling in life, one having the necessary practical experience in that calling, and being fully acquainted with the wants and necessities peculiar to that class, should be chosen.

I do not come before you soliciting your suffrages upon any party platform, and I desire to be distinctly understood that I present myself as an out and out independent candidate, owing allegiance to no party other than to my constituents.

While I do not undertake to guard more zealously the interests of one class than those of another, yet if honored by election I shall make it my chief aim, among other things, to do my utmost towards obtaining a more prudent expenditure of public moneys apportioned to the improvement of roads, the passing of an ordinance for the proper control of cattle and other stock running at large, and for much needed amendments to our statute labor laws.

While distinctly of the farmers and from the farmers and owing no allegiance to any particular town, I shall at all times do my utmost towards advancing the same interests of all towns and communities in this division in particular and the interests of the whole district in general. I shall give my hearty and independent support to all measures that will conduce to the material welfare of the District of Alberta, no matter from whom or from what party they may emanate.

Before the date of election I hope to be able to meet you in personal canvass and explain to you more fully my platform, and personally appeal to you for your support, and if, in your wisdom, you do not then see fit to endorse my candidature, believe me that I shall still regard you with unabated friendship.

I remain, your humble servant,

ROBERT McKERNAN.

THE machinery for Hogue's gold dredge has arrived.

J. F. MCNAMARA returned from Peace River last week.

JAS. KIRK and family leave to-morrow for Albany, Oregon.

NEW potatoes as large as a hen egg are in use throughout the district.

M. PLANTE, of St. Albert is being tried to-day before Insp. Routledge for cattle stealing.

HON. J. R. COSTIGAN was met on the road from Lesser Slave lake to Peace river by recent arrivals.

A. E. LAKE, clerk, is in charge of the Stony Plain Indian agency. Insp. McGibbon is also at the agency.

R. MCKERNAN, of South Edmonton, is a candidate for the representation of Edmonton district in the Northwest Assembly.

G.W. GAIRDNER, of Gairdner & Harrison, is a prospective candidate for the representation of St. Albert in the Northwest Assembly.

W. DALLIN, Chicago, is in Edmonton looking up a ten thousand acre tract of land for a combined immigration and farming scheme.

POTATOES are reported to be a good crop at Lesser Slave lake this season. Also Saskatoon berries, raspberries and goose berries.

WINNIPEG Telegram, July 25th: One hundred and fifteen Galicians will arrive from the east this evening and will be sent on to Edmonton, Pleasant home and Yorkton.

ON Friday week a raft struck the middle pier of the bridge and a number of logs were knocked out. Several piled up against the pier and remained until taken away by Percy Hardisty with his steam launch.

J. H. PICARD's party killed a bear while on the way down Lesser Slave lake. The bear was swimming across the lake and was killed in the water. The boats crews had a great feast.

GEO. KERNOHAN, who started out with A. D. Osborne and party for the upper Liard, left the party and took his horses down Peace river on a raft to Smith Portage, where he has been freighting ever since.

"A Barn Stormer" by Harry Lindley, comedian, is on sale at Bossanges' bookstore. The book was written last winter and is a collection of anecdotes and reminincences of the author's somewhat chequered career in stageland.

THE Plaindealer mentions A. C. Rutherford and M. McKinlay as prospective candidates for Edmonton district, as well as M. McCauley and R. McKernan. Mr. Rutherford contested the district at the bye election against the sitting member, M. McCauley.

N. D. BECK, town solicitor, received a letter on Monday's mail from Mr. Blair, solicitor for the Edmonton district railway company, in which he said the company expected to send their engineer to Edmonton shortly to make the preliminary survey for the line to and across the river.

A POLICE officer is being placed at Rampart house on the Porcupine to act as customs officer there. His special business is to give clearance to Canadian boats coming down the Porcupine from the Mackenzie route, so that they can return into Canadian territory at Fort Cudahy, duty free.

FREE LANCE: Mrs. David Mackenzie, of Little Hay lakes, an old lady nearly 70 years of age, got lost while hunting for some cattle on the morning of Thursday, the 21st instant. She wandered around for five days without a thing to eat and was found on Monday by her husband, who had organized a party and had been hunting for the unfortunate women five days. While still very weak she is gaining rapidly.

W. TAYLOR, who went out from Edmonton in March last to explore a trail from Edmonton to Pelly river, was seen by members of the Good Hope party at Dunvegan. He is expected to reach Edmonton to-day by the Slave lake trail. He had reached the Pelly by way of the Nelson and returned by the same route, except that in going he went direct from the crossing of Peace river to the Nelson, and in coming back he came from the west branch of the Nelson to the Peace at Fort St. John.

R. FREEMAN returned on Saturday from Peace river, whither he had gone on a prospecting trip. Freeman is from Hamilton, Ont., and left here on May 9th with H. Burnett and W. Hardstaff. They built boats at the crossing of the Pembina and went down that stream and the Athabasca and up Lesser Slave river. On reaching the Peace and prospecting they found there was nothing in the vicinity of the crossing to be worth spending time on, and concluded that they would have to go across the mountains to get good diggings. In order to help out the feed supply, Freeman turned the remainder of his food over to the other two and returned.

A. H. GREER, came in from Fort Assiniboine on Saturday, having left the Athabasca on Wednesday. The ferry cable had been carried from its fastenings by high water, and after several inefectual attempts to again stretch the cable the scow was fitted with sweeps and the several outfits that had been held up by the carrying away of the cable got across. The water rose eleven feet, but was going down slowly when Mr. Green left on Wednesday the 27th. The Dibble and McFee surveying parties, Philip Tate, Norris Bros., a party of prospectors from Pincher Creek, and a man with wagon and team, name unknown, got safely across. There has been considerable travel over the new trail About 150 horses crossed the ferry during June, and July would have a larger number, and the trail is only now being completed. There is no doubt that there will be a large amount of travel to Peace river over this trail, as a surprising number of persons are going out to Slave lake and Peace river to settle.

DR. FAWCETT, J. W. Fawcett, Vic. Chaffee, Jos. Ryder, David Beare, J. Glimoker, and Jas. Durrand, of the Good Hope prospecting party, returned from Fort St. John, Peace River, yesterday. Alex. Johnson, T. J. Neilson and W. A. Bliss, of the same party got in a few days before. On reaching St. John about the middle of June the party fitted five of their members with two years supplies and sent them on to Fort Graham on the Findlay. These were: Leonard Matchet, of Winnipeg; E. Smith, W. Fiset and Haendle, of Grand Forks, North Dakota. This party spent July 4th, at Fort Graham. There were 123 prospectors there at the time. Only bar diggings and poor pay had as yet been found on the Findlay, but the creeks were still unprospected. The Good Hope party were instructed to push on to the Pelly as fast as possible. Ten days after the first party of five was sent out from St. John a second party also of five was sent out, to follow the same route, and outfitted for two years. Some of the remainder of the party prospected on the Peace above Rocky Mountain portage and found fine gold showing 100 colors to the pan, but it was so fine they could not save it. Three members of the party remained on Peace river to prospect for themselves. Three others left the party on the way out. The whole party numbered 26.

S. EMERSON, who has been in the Lake Athabasca region for some years, is visiting the metropolis of the north.

C. W. BELL, of the Brantford party of prospectors, returned from Peace River last week. The other members of the party were then a couple of day's journey out on the trail to Nelson river by way of Hay river.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

A bazaar and quilt raffle was held at the church of Notre Dame des Lourdes, north side, on Sunday which realized $60 in aid of a new church. A number of Edmonton people attended.

The Presbyterian Sunday school held a very successful pic-nic on Friday afternoon on the grounds at the Belcher farm on the river bank. The usual pic-nic rainfall occurred, but only temporarily dampened the spirits of the merrymakers.

A telephone service has been commenced at Fort Saskatchewan. The mill, L. Moret's store and Mr. Cunliffe's residence are connected by telephone.

Preparations are being made for a sports meeting as soon as the new race track has been fenced.
